Mooch's Messages

Hi... Moocher here...

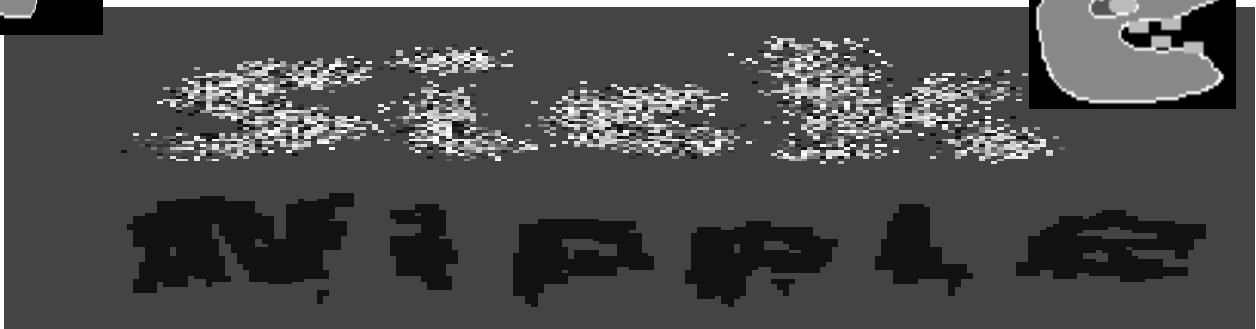

Okay let's get down to business. You have probably been wondering why I haven't spoken out against my fellow band members for their wrongdoing. Well, damn it, I've tried, but they will not let me. All I can say is that if you play "Away" backwards, I will reveal the one girl who I hold most true to my heart. If you are that girl, I shall marry you the following day...just kidding, ladies... Okay, my REAL point is that this a good tape, I hope. Listen to all of the keyboard parts.

They really help our pathetic songs out. In short, I'm awesome so listen to me. ---Mooch '94

Uh... Yeah. Well this is our 1st news letter for any body who cares (and for those who don't.) Many people ask me where all these songs come from (well, no they really don't, but that's ok.) Here's some tid-bits (what ever a "tid-bit" is):

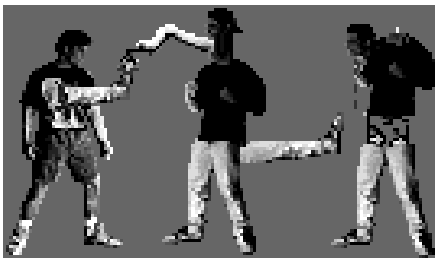

Two of the most recognized "Nispy" songs are probably "People Get Killed By Dogs" and "Underwear On My Head." The first of these was "the first" song that inspired the band. It was a Mooch screechy voice/piano bit that Yosh and I really liked. At the time, it was just a chorus. This song was originally "When the sun goes down in the night"(???) Before the disturbing change of lyrics. Where the actual idea came from is beyond me. "Underwear" came a little after we were first "organized" as a group. Mooch found an annoying keyboard lick and we ad-libbed it from there. As for current inspirations, there's millions which you'll probably never hear about and most likely wouldn't want to anyway.

AAAHHAHAHAAA

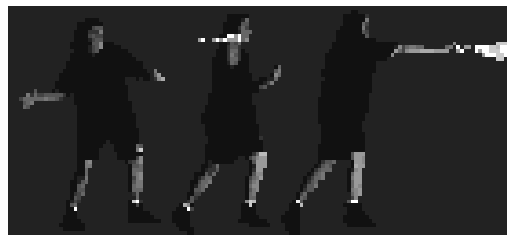

Hi, YOSH here. Rick called me up and told me that I had to write a section of the Nispy newsletter. I thought to my self, "What the hell?" Are we entirely selling out? So I told Rick "You F####ing a##hole! What the f### are you trying to do to us? Make you own piece of s### news letter. Wait a minute... no I didn't... Da non non na na na, Da non non na na na, Da da da da da, bomp, bomp. (See side note.)

side notes suck. they take up too much space.

Nispy is pretty cool.

The solo album offspring thingy from Nispy by me (Yosh) will be coming out sometime after sick nipple, sometime before Nasty Cat. Collection of southern fried funk will be called "Me and My Colloidal Bass." I promise that it will almost not suck. Hopefully Pierre will do drums for me, that's not important right now... Later.

NEARLY IMPORTANT!!!
